

Canadian International Development
Scholarships 2030

Training Workshop

Developing & Implementing a Back-Home Plan

Your time studying in Canada with BCDI 2030 is just one step in your career journey. But what comes next?

This interactive training is designed specifically for BCDI 2030 Scholars to help you prepare for your return home and turn your ideas into action. Through two 2-hour virtual sessions filled with practical exercises and guided reflection, you will develop an individualized Back-Home Plan to help you navigate your next steps with confidence.

- Define your personal and professional goals for your return home.
- Map out the resources, skills, networks and relationships you can draw on — and identify what you may still need.
- Anticipate potential challenges and identify strategies and supports to help overcome them.
- Explore how you can put your leadership, mentoring and other skills into practice in your workplace and community.
- Develop a concrete action plan to help turn your goals and ideas into reality.
- Strengthen your employability skills and prepare for your next career or education opportunity.

Why participate?

Plan with purpose for your return home and your next career or education step.

Turn your ideas into action with a practical, individualized plan.

Identify the resources, contacts, mentors and other supports that can help you succeed.

Build confidence and excitement for the next chapter of your journey.

Visit the BCDI 2030 Scholars' platform, ConnecT to learn about upcoming sessions and register.

For any questions, please contact info@BCDI2030.ca

Universities
Canada.